Tips for Travellers

Category name	Details
Altitude considerations	Acclimatization is one of the important things to prepare for while planning a trip to Ladakh. The fact that Leh and most of the places in nearby are located above the altitude of 10,000 feet, visitors may suffer from dizziness, headaches or even acute mountain sickness (AMS). So planning to acclimatize to the high altitude condition becomes one of the most important things to take into consideration while you are planning your trip to Ladakh.
